Do you have a problem with recruiting and retention? If so, this is the workshop for you. We will discuss well over 100 ideas to help you improve the process of recruiting, hiring, training and then retaining your workforce. We will discuss generational differences and use that information to form a plan so we can all work better together. Then we will spend time examining different and effective ways to recruit, hire, train and retain. When you leave, you will have a plan laid out that can be implemented the first day back in your organization.
